manroland web systems and Goss International complete business merger manroland web systems and Goss International, both long-time web offset printing manufacturers and service providers, announced the completion of merger process. The new company will operate under the brand name "manroland Goss web systems" and will be the strongest supplier to web printing companies worldwide. 17th August 2018 was Day1 for the new entity.

■ Hindustan Times, one of the leading English daily Newspapers & our long term partner undertook replacement of the Interbus Loop on their COLORMAN press. It involved a complete exchange of the obsolete parts with new software and electronics which is equipped with more features like a more detailed error description, which enables faster and more precise troubleshooting. The benefits provided by these more complex sensors and automation innovations are unbeatable for the everyday tight production slots of a daily Newspaper.

manroland participated in INMA Conference which is a global community of market leading news media companies. This is a premier organization dedicated to surfacing the best ideas in news media.

■ Brazilian printer Pia Sociedade de, São Paulo has invested in a 2-web EUROMAN press from manroland web systems. Quality, flexibility and efficiency, all at highest quality are features of EUROMAN, our best selling commercial press.

■ manroland intend to permanently integrate additive manufacturing products into the e-commerce sector, namely manroland web STORE and our B2B-trading platform, MARKET-X in the future. This will improve the availability of parts for customers & achieve a higher level of customer satisfaction with shorter delivery time.
